Graduate School of Environmental Studies, Tohoku University

1. Admission Policy

(1) Tohoku University

Philosophy & Mission

With over 100 years of history and distinguished traditions, Tohoku University has developed excellence in education and research under its principles of "Research First," "Open Doors," and "Practice-Oriented Research and Education" since its establishment in 1907. The university will maintain these traditions while looking toward even more dramatic progress in the future. As a world-leading center of education and research, it will contribute greatly to the human race by grappling with the difficult and complex issues facing the 21st century. Tohoku University will focus its efforts of its faculties, graduate schools, and research institutes to foster ethical international leaders who will carry humanity into the future, while expanding its globally renowned creative research for the benefit of society at large.

Characteristics

1) Three Foundational Ideals

"Research First," "Open Doors," and "Practice-Oriented Research and Education" — soon after its founding, Tohoku University established this set of unique ideals, the substance of which it is continually developing in response to our changing times.

2) Rich Educational Environment

Tohoku University has numerous research organizations and facilities, primarily comprising 10 undergraduate schools, 15 graduate schools, 3 professional graduate schools, and 6 research institutes. Research institute staff also participate in educational activities (there are approx. 3,000 instructors; enrollment limits are approx. 2,400 for undergraduates, 2,700 for graduate students).

3) Research University

Tohoku University is a school that continuously produces numerous internationally recognized research results and concertedly pushes forward with leading-edge research and education.

4) Active Regional/Industrial-Academic Ties

The university is actively working to expand its diverse regional and industrial ties.

5) Globalizing Education and Research

Among Japan's national universities, Tohoku University is one of the top schools in terms of agreements with overseas universities. It is actively expanding exchange in education and research. The university strives to foster globally active individuals through strong support for studying abroad by Japanese students, as well as recruitment of numerous international students.

Ideal Tohoku University Applicants

Tohoku University seeks students who sympathize with the university's principles and who are motivated by:

1. the desire to make outstanding contributions as world-class researchers by addressing the issues facing humanity in the 21st century, and

2. the desire to make outstanding contributions to the development of society as highly specialized professionals who possess abundant knowledge and leadership.

To realize these ambitions, students should also have strength of will, academic curiosity, a broad perspective, and an excellent foundation of specialized knowledge and abilities.

Tohoku University Admissions Process (Graduate School)

Depending on the number and type of candidates sought, Tohoku University graduate schools provide multiple categories of, and opportunities for undergoing, entrance exams to meet the needs of candidates from diverse backgrounds. Schools may evaluate the candidate's qualifications, abilities, and specialization using interviews, application documents such as research plans, proficiency exams, and external tests.

(2) Tohoku University Graduate School of Environmental Studies

By bringing together the multidisciplinary knowledge of Tohoku University, the Graduate School of Environmental Studies (GSES) aims to establish environmental science as an integrated discipline that transcends the traditional divisions of the humanities and sciences in order to establish a culture supporting sustainable development as well as technologies and systems needed to establish resource-circulating societies. To achieve this goal, GSES has set the educational objective of fostering individuals equipped with a combination of broad knowledge and deep expertise relevant to the understanding and solving of environmental problems. By effectively integrating insights from existing academic fields while creating new frontiers of knowledge, GSES seeks to foster environmental professionals capable of playing an active role in the international community. GSES is looking for students who share these goals. We especially welcome applicants with a strong desire and ability to carry out study and research, and the fundamental academic skills needed to achieve their goals.

Six entrance examination subject-groups are conducted to match the varying expertise of applicants. In each subject-group, students are selected through six different examination procedures: General Selection, Special Selection for Recommended Students, Special Selection for Working Persons, Special Selection for International Students, and Special Selection for Graduates of the Early Graduation System. Selection is made based on the applicant's motivation to conduct research in line with the educational goals of GSES, as well as academic knowledge and outstanding research capabilities.

(Doctoral course (3 years))

The General Selection examination may include a written component to ascertain if applicants possess a high level of specialized knowledge in the relevant academic field. However, in particular, the oral examination will be used to comprehensively evaluate the applicant's ability to think logically and formulate a research plan based on a critical consideration of previous research.

In the same way, although the examinations of the Special Selection for Working Persons and the Special Selection for International Students may also include a written examination to assess the applicant's possession of specialized knowledge, selection will mainly be made on the quality of the research proposal along with the applicant's motivation and sense of mission to carry out academic research in a university setting. In the Special Selection for Working Persons and the Special Selection for International Students, while the applicant's expertise may be assessed through a written examination if necessary, selection is mainly based on the oral examination.

In all fields, we expect applicants to have acquired both advanced skills and fundamental knowledge in their respective fields of specialization as well as the ability to orally present research in academic conferences and publish academic papers.

2. Departments and Admission Quotas

 - (b) Have carried out research in a university or research institute, etc. for two or more years after completing 16 years of course studies overseas, or after completing, in Japan, 16 years of foreign school course studies by means of correspondence courses conducted by foreign schools, and be recognized by this Graduate School as having achieved at least the equivalent academic abilities of someone with a master's degree on the basis of those research accomplishments.
- (8) Be aged 24 or above and, through individual admission eligibility screening, be recognized by this Graduate School as having achieved at least the equivalent academic abilities of someone with a master's degree or professional degree.

Note 1: Applicants need to consult with a possible supervisor about the research plan in this program prior to the application.

Note 2: Applicants applying under application eligibility (7) should contact the Academic Affairs

Section, Graduate School of Environmental Studies regarding application eligibilities to apply by May 29, 2026. The following documents will be needed for the procedure.

Required documents	Notes
Certification of research or work experience	Issued by the head of the place of work or research, certifying two or more years of engagement as engineer, instructor, researcher, etc. (any format; with official letterhead, signature, seal, etc.).
Summary of research or work	Research/work carried out during time spent working as an engineer, instructor, researcher, etc. (approximately 2 A4-size pages).
Academic transcript	Issued by the dean of the school from which the applicant graduated.
Other reference materials	Copies of technical papers, patent announcements, etc.

Note 3: Applicants corresponding to (8) need to contact with the administration office by May 29, 2026 to check eligibility.

Note 4: Applicants who are currently employed as a faculty member or staff member at Tohoku University and will continue to work at the university after enrollment should contact the Academic Affairs Section, Graduate School of Environmental Studies by May 26, 2026.

Note 5: For foreign students living overseas, it may take 2 to 3 months from the time of the announcement of results until you can enter Japan after receiving a student visa. Therefore, please consult with your prospective academic advisor about the timing of the entrance examination you will take, etc., before applying. Please note that we cannot respond to requests for early issuance of a certificate of eligibility for residence status after you have been accepted. Please do not take any steps to come to Japan that are contrary to the instructions of our university.

4. Application Procedures and Application Period

The application procedure is carried out by entering the designated online application system, The Admission Office (hereafter referred to as the “TAO”), and submitting the original application documents. Applicants should follow the procedure below and complete the application procedure within the application period.

1) General flow

1 Confirming Application Guidelines and Obtaining the Necessary Documents

- Please carefully check the information in this Application Guidelines, including the application eligibility and the necessary application documents.
- For application documents, such as certificates of (expected) graduation, transcripts, and other support documentation, please request them in advance from the university you attended.

2 Paying the Examination Fee (Not applicable for those who are applying for General Selection for Continuous Students)

- Follow the directions on the Application Guidelines. Use an ATM (at a financial institution or convenience store) or online banking to pay via transfer to the designated bank account. A prescribed fee will be charged when making the payment (to be borne by the applicant).
- After making the transfer, attach documents that show the payee's account information, the amount, the date of transfer, and the name of the payer—such as a copy of the ATM statement or a copy of the screen of the completed Internet banking transfer—to the Payment Confirmation for Examination Fee, and upload the scanned data to the TAO Application Registration website

3 Registering an Application via application registration website

- Please access The Admissions Office website, create an account, and then enter the necessary information, including the information of the applicants.
<https://admissions-office.net/>
- Uploading the documents to be submitted via the TAO is also done when you register your application.
- Once you have registered, you will not be able to change the details you have registered. Please be careful and check your registration carefully to avoid making any mistakes.
Once you have completed your registration, you will receive an email from the TAO confirming that your application has been completed. (If there is no email, please check your registration status on the TAO.)

4 Sending the original documents

- Please send the original documents listed in the application documents by express simplified registration mail or a method that allows you to track the delivery status, in accordance with the instructions in (3) and (4) of "3) Application Method".
- Please note that if the documents do not arrive by the date specified in the application guidelines, your application will not be accepted. (In some cases, it may not be necessary to submit the original documents, depending on the selection category or entrance examination group for which you are applying.)

2) Application period

From 9:00 on Monday, June 8, 2026 to 16:00 on Friday, July 3, 2026 (Japan Time)

3) Application Method

- (1) Access the following URL and click the Member Registration button. The account creation screen will appear, so fill in the necessary information and create an account.

<https://admissions-office.net/portal>

- (2) After creating your account, enter your e-mail address and password to log in from the above URL. Access the following URL and follow the TAO's directions and the directions below to apply.

https://admissions-office.net/ja/applicant/university_recruitments/13665

- (3) The documents required for application are as indicated in the relevant section of I, II, III or IV below, depending on the selection category and application eligibility.

Please fill in the application form on the TAO or convert it to a PDF file and upload it for submission.

The files for the forms prescribed by the Graduate School are posted on the same page of the Graduate School website as this application guidelines, so please download and use them.

In addition, for those items that state “TAO and original” in the “Submission Method” column, please upload them to the TAO and then submit the original paper version as described in the next section (4).

- (4) As a general rule, please submit the original paper documents by post.

Submissions must arrive by the final day of the acceptance period stated below.

Please use a commercially available envelope and write in red on the front of the envelope “Original documents for the entrance examination for the Doctoral program of GSES (Oct. enrollment)”, and be sure to send it by Express simplified registration mail. (If you are sending from outside Japan, please send the documents in a method that allows you to check the delivery status.)

If you are submitting in person, please bring it by 16:30 on the last day of the acceptance period.

Acceptance period: From Monday, June 8, 2026 to Wednesday, July 8, 2026.

Acceptance hours: 9:00 - 12:30, 13:30 - 16:30

(If you are sending by post, it must arrive by the final day of the application period.)

- Applications will not be accepted on Saturdays, Sundays or public holidays.

Environment and Geography group: The score submitted last is used for evaluation.

[IV] Applicants applying under application eligibility (6), (8)

Contact the Academic Affairs Section of the Graduate School of Environmental Studies by May 29, 2026, for information regarding the application documents.

If you are applying under application eligibility (8), please submit the documents for individual admission eligibility screening by May 29, 2026, referring to Note 3 in "3 Application Eligibility".

5. Examination and Selection

The selection of new students will be made based on the results of the examination subjects listed in Appendix 2 and the documents to be submitted.

Examination dates: From Tuesday, August 25 to Thursday, August 27, 2026 according to Appendix 2.

Applicants should refer to Appendix 1 "Departments, Entrance Examination Groups, and Laboratories" and take the examination for "Entrance Examination Groups" that includes the laboratory to which they wish to be assigned.

Location: Aobayama New Campus or Aobayama East Campus, Tohoku University
However, the Human and Social science group will be conducted online via the Internet. (Details will be announced in the examination guide that will be sent out at a later date.

Examination admission ticket: Please download it from the TAO, print it on A4 white paper, and bring it with you on the day of the examination. The date when downloading will begin will be announced in a message on the TAO.

Note: It is not possible to take the examination of more than one selection held on the same examination schedule. (e.g. General Selection and Special Selection for International Students, etc.).

6. Announcement of Results

Results are scheduled to be posted around 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, September 2, 2026, on the following website

<https://www.kankyo.tohoku.ac.jp>

Successful applicants will be issued their acceptance letters via TAO.

Please note that results cannot be given in response to telephone inquiries.

7. Enrollment Procedures, etc.

(1) The enrollment procedures are scheduled to take place in September 15, 2026.

The detailed information will be provided via email or message from the TAO after the announcement of results.

(2) Fees necessary at the time of enrollment Students entering from another school

【Students entering from another school】

(a) Admission fee: 282,000 yen (tentative)

(b) Tuition (second semester): 267,900 yen (annual 535,800 yen) (tentative)

【Advancing students】

(a) Admission fee: None (students are expected to have completed the first two years of this Graduate School's doctoral program and as such will have already paid the admission fee)

(b) Tuition (second semester): 267,900 yen (annual 535,800 yen) (tentative)

Note 1: The above amounts are tentative. In the case that admission or tuition fees are Revised, the new fees will become applicable from the time of the revision.

Note 2: Information regarding payment, waiver, deferment of admission fee and tuition fee payment will be provided in the enrollment registration documents sent after the announcement of successful applicants.

Note 3: In addition, as other miscellaneous expenses, international students must pay the insurance premium for the “Comprehensive Insurance for Students Lives Coupled with 'Gakkensai' for International Students” (28,780 yen (B Type)).

Details will be provided in the enrollment registration documents sent after the results are announced. (The amount is as of April 1, 2026. The premium amount is for three years.)

Note 4: For information on exemptions, deferrals, etc., please visit the Tohoku University website.

<https://c.bureau.tohoku.ac.jp/gakusei-shien/menjo/>

Please note that in April 2026, Tohoku University launched a comprehensive support package for doctoral students called the "Tohoku University Advanced Graduate School LEAP Program."

For an overview of this program, please refer to the LEAP Program page on the Tohoku University Advanced Graduate School website below.

(Please note that students may be ineligible if their annual income exceeds a certain amount, or depending on other scholarships they are receiving.)

<https://pgd.tohoku.ac.jp/english/rpc/LEAP.html>

(3) The entrance ceremony is scheduled to be held on October 1, 2026, and classes are scheduled to begin on October 2.

8. Eligibility for Long Term Study Program

Some applicants, due to the need to continue with employment or other special circumstances (Note 1), may request permission to follow a planned course of study longer than the normal period of three years in order to receive their degree (Note 2).

This Graduate School offers such an option, called a “Long Term Study Program,” to those who qualify in an advance screening exam. Long term doctoral students pay the same amount over the length of their studies as those enrolled in the standard three-year program.

If you wish to apply for the Long-term Study Student Program, please be sure to enter your preference in the designated section of the application form, as we will inform you of the application procedure separately.

Please note that the system is applicable from the time of entering the university, and as a general rule, it is not possible to change to the Long-term Study Student System during your time at the university.

Note 1: To be eligible for this program, the applicant must (1) be employed full-time by a company or be self-employed, (2) be perform child birth, child care and nursing care, etc., (3) be otherwise determined by this Graduate School to be suitable for the program.

Note 2: The period of study may not be extended beyond six years, but it is possible to request that the allowed period be shortened. In principle, no special curriculum will be prepared for students in the long term study program.

Note 3: The deadline for applying to the Long-term Study Student Program is the date of enrollment registration. Details will be provided in the enrollment registration documents.

9. Handling of Personal Information

- (1) All personal information gathered by Tohoku University shall be treated with due care in compliance with the relevant university regulations, such as the Act on the Protection of Personal Information (2003, Act No. 57), and the National University Corporation Tohoku University Policy on the Protection of Personal Information, and security measures will be taken to protect it.
- (2) Personal information, such as examination scores, used to screen applicants will be used exclusively for educational purposes, such as selecting applicants, enrollment procedures, pre-enrollment instruction, follow-up surveys, post-enrollment student support (scholarships, tuition waivers and health management etc.) and academic advising, or in connection with tuition collection etc., or surveys/research (surveys/analysis related to entrance examination improvements and reasons for applying; including analysis using the enrollees' personal information after enrollment).
- (3) Tasks related to entrance examinations and academic affairs may be outsourced by Tohoku University to third-party contractors (hereafter, "contractors"). If personal information is provided in whole or in part to contractors, necessary measures will be taken to ensure it is handled appropriately in accordance with the relevant university regulations, such as the National University Corporation Tohoku University Policy on the Protection of Personal Information.

10. Educational Data Usage

Tohoku University strives to use Educational Data including personal information stored in the information system in education and learning activities, effectively and appropriately in compliance with our "Statement on Educational Data Usage," "Policy on Educational Data Usage," and "Tohoku University's 8 Principles of Educational Data Acquisition" while paying attention to the protection of personal information. After being admitted to the university, students' personal information, such as entrance exam scores etc., is merged with the university's Educational Data.

11. Important Notes

- (1) We will not notify you when we have received the documents you have sent by post. Please check the delivery status on Japan Post website's Track & Trace Service.
- (2) If you do not receive the examination guide or are unable to download the examination admission ticket by ten days prior to the examination date, please contact the Academic Affairs Section, Graduate School of Environmental Studies.
- (3) Withdrawal of applications and changes to the content of application documents will not be accepted.
- (4) Submitted application documents and examination fees cannot be returned.
- (5) All other inquiries regarding application for admission should likewise be made to the Academic Affairs Section, Graduate School of Environmental Studies.
- (6) Applicants desiring consultation regarding the need for special assistance or other consideration in taking the examination or conducting your studies should make a written application indicating the items listed below. Please contact the Academic Affairs Section of the Graduate School of Environmental Studies to receive the application form. Be assured that such a request will in no way prejudice the outcome of the selection process, as all applicants will be treated fairly.

* Deadline for submitting applications: May 25, 2026

* Submit to: Academic Affairs Section, Graduate School of Environmental Studies

* Information to be indicated in creating application:

- a) Name, address and phone number of applicant
- b) University, etc. from which the applicant has graduated
- c) Any special considerations desired in taking examination
- d) Any special considerations desired in the study environment
- e) Content of any special considerations provided up to now
- f) Other relevant information about daily life circumstances
- g) Reference materials (if currently under treatment, enclose a medical certificate issued by your physician)

- (7) Tohoku University has established Tohoku University Security Export Control Regulations based on the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Act, and screens each submitted application when we accept international students in our university. In the event that their research plans apply to the regulatory concerns, above mentioned students may not be able to receive desired education and their research themes may be limited.
