Tohoku University Global Hagi Scholarship

Since FY 2018, by providing exceptional students who possess abundant motivation and talent an environment in which they can enroll in our doctoral curricula and dedicate themselves to academic research, this scholarship has aimed to foster "leaders capable of creativity and innovation" who will contribute to scientific and technological development in Japan. From FY 2026, eligibility was revised to "master's curricula students who intend to proceed to doctoral curricula."

For an outline of the scholarship please see the following page.

Scholarship Features

The below features provide an environment in which exceptional students who have abundant motivation and talent can dedicate themselves to academic research.

- The scholarship is awarded to students, selected by their graduate schools, who are enrolled in master's curricula etc. (master's degree curricula, master's curricula that are part of doctoral curricula, and professional degree curricula).
- The scholarship is generally awarded for the standard length of the curriculum.
- The scholarship can be received simultaneously with other needs-based scholarships.
